“ I am His First Great Grand Daughter and My pawpaw raised me since I was born. We would watch Barney and go to the store. I just wanted to say I miss you.

“ I will forever miss Bill's wisdom and guidance. I could always count on Bill for input in important decisions in my life. I worked for him for 7 years and Bill is the reason I have had the success in my career that I have had. I still quote him and use his teaching everyday. The world lost a great man but I look forward to seeing him again.

To our uncle: Shirley, Judye, and Bettie - September 26, 2018 at 10:56 PM

“ Despite being only eight years older, William was my uncle. Kindness, caring, industrious, and intelligent are just a few of the words that come to mind when I think of William. My earliest memory of William was the marbles he kept in the chifforobe in his bedroom. For some reason these marbles held a fascination for me. I'd go into his room and look in the drawer where the marbles were kept...just looking at them and maybe rolling them around was enough. I cannot remember asking to play with them. This past summer, William left me with a few words of wisdom. I was bemoaning the fact how I'd get nervous when certain stocks would lose value. He said, "Shirley, you haven't lost anything unless you sell." Love, that he said that. He's so right. I'd like to share a couple verses of a poem, Death is Nothing at all by Henry Scot-Holland. I have found this poem comforting: I think William would too.

Everything remains exactly as it was.
I am I, and you are you,
and the old life that we lived so fondly together is untouched, unchanged.
Whatever we were to each other, that we still are.

Why should I be out of mind because I am out of sight?
I am but waiting for you, for an interval,
somewhere very near,
Just around the corner.

Glidvel, Ann, grandchildren, great grandchildren, and extended family so sorry for the loss of this good man. He is with Our Father and the Angels now. I know you will go forward with the lessons he taught all of you. May God's love surround all of you during this time of sorrow. Shirley Huckaby Fowler, Richard, David, Gabriel and Valerie Fowler
